WHAT IS A SCREENING MAMMOGRAM

- A screening mammogram is a simple exam where X-ray images are taken of your breast.
- It is the single most effective way to detect breast cancer at its earliest stage, before symptoms are present and while the cancer is still treatable.

TYPES OF MAMMOGRAMS

2D:

- Flat 2D digital image of the breast

3D/Tomosynthesis:

- Higher quality imaging by providing 1 millimeter slices throughout the breast in addition to 2D imaging
- Radiation dosage is similar and difference in time is seconds
- Reduces number of call backs as it allows radiologist to see areas that may otherwise be in question with a 2D mammogram
